Did you ever thought how to do when the master clock is beside the mixing board and you are far from it on the performing stage, and you need to receive the Master clock and other MIDI codes like programs or scene change or sequences?

We thought how to and we found a solution choosing the right materials.

It's possible to make the MIDI signal travel long distance through an analog Audio Snake. Just use out cables DMX60 and DMX60X!

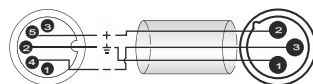

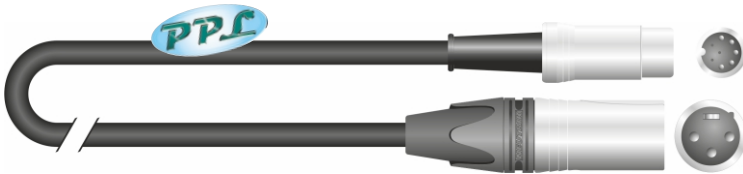

(The sure distance limit is about 40 meters, longer distances can be achieved with quality cables)

Loudspeaker Cables

When choosing cables for an audio system, mostly we often don't consider with due attention the choice of loudspeaker cables, considering them of little importance.

Modern power amplifiers and stage designs with long cable runs set new standards and requirements for speaker cables.

In addition to this we find varying mechanical, electrical and chemical demands depending on the corresponding use.

Before choosing the suitable speaker cables it is useful to analyse the structural needs and applications.

After having chosen the general type of cable you should consider the working voltage, the maximum current and the distance of the cable run.

Modern equipment often make amplifier outputs of 2000 W/8 Ohm respectively 4000 W/ 4 Ohm possible.

Consequently speaker cables must be selected to suit the transportation of such high energy amounts reliably.

Resulting tension and ampere requirements can be found in the following graphic which shows the loss of performance in relation to length of the cable and its cross-section.

Cavi Per Casse

Nella scelta del sistema di cablaggio di un impianto, spesso non si considera con la dovuta attenzione la scelta del cavo per cassa, ritenendo quest'ultimo di minore importanza.

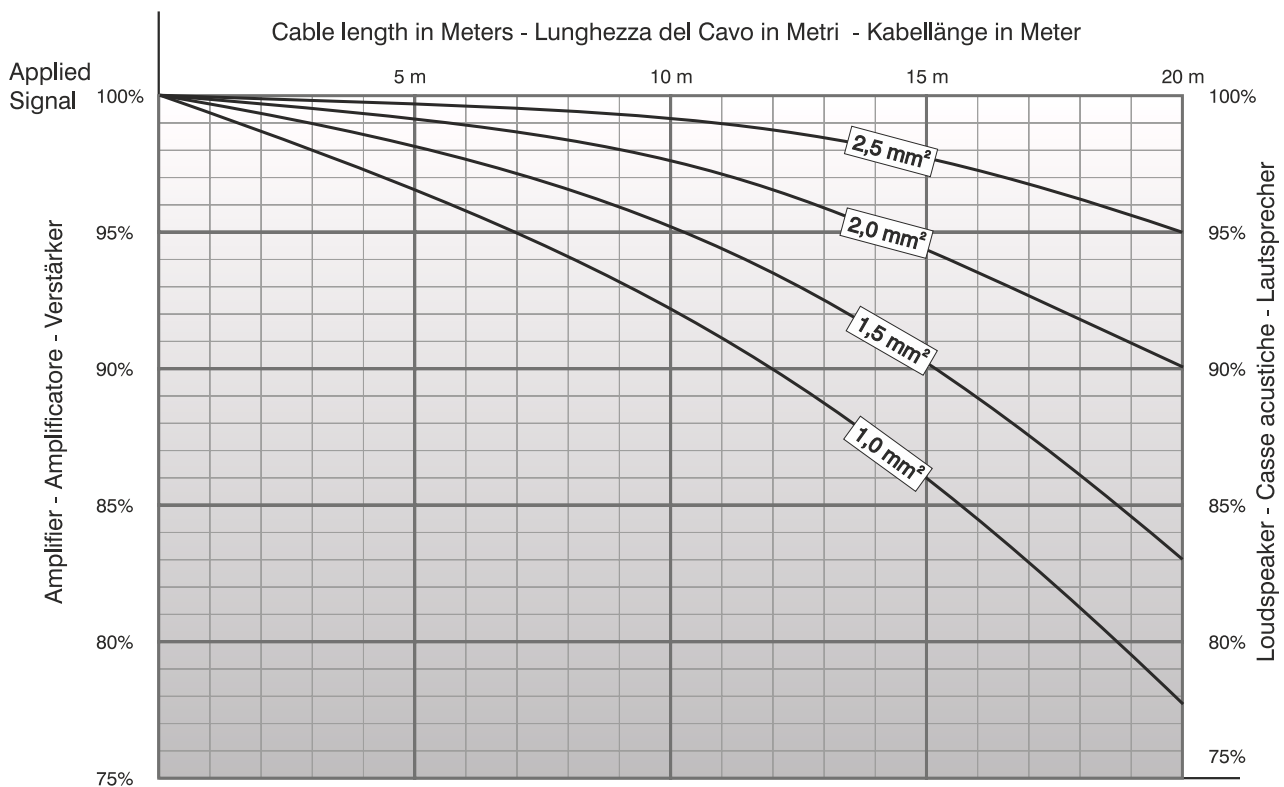

I moderni amplificatori e le configurazioni da palco che utilizzano cablaggi lunghi impongono nuove esigenze e nuovi standard per il cavo per casse.

In aggiunta, in funzione dell'utilizzo, sono necessarie caratteristiche meccaniche, chimiche oltre che elettriche ottimali. Prima di scegliere il cavo appropriato bisogna analizzare le esigenze strutturali e le applicazioni per le quali dovrà essere utilizzato.

Dopo aver scelto il tipo di cavo bisogna considerare il voltaggio di utilizzo, la corrente massima da applicare e la distanza sulla quale dovrà funzionare.

I moderni impianti necessitano sovente di amplificatori da 2.000 W/8 Ohm o 4.000 W/4 Ohm.

Di conseguenza i cavi per cassa devono essere scelti in funzione del carico di energia che sono destinati a trasportare. La tensione e la corrente in relazione alla lunghezza e sezione del cavo sono evidenziati dal seguente grafico:

The missing share is mainly transformed into heat and that is why we use temperature resistant jackets.

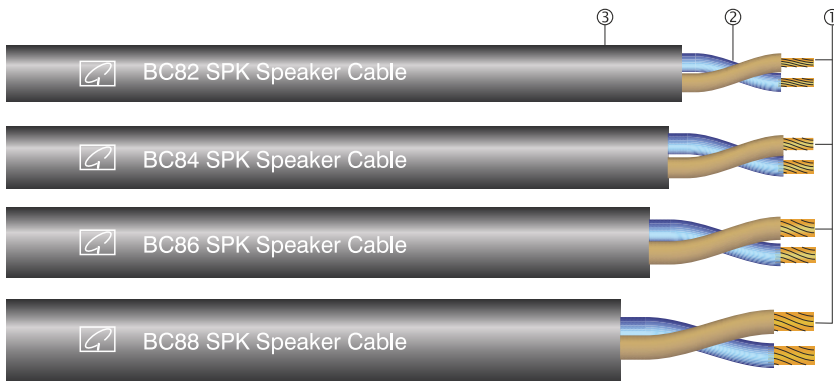

It is important take the dangers of incineration caused by high energy performance combined with insufficient cross section into consideration. In general the loss of energy due to cables should not amount to more than 10%.

Le perdite di segnale vengono trasformate in calore. Ecco perché utilizziamo guaine termo resistenti sui nostri cavi per casse.

E' importante che prendiate nella dovuta considerazione il pericolo di incendio dovuto al veicolo di forti correnti attraverso cavi di sezione inappropriata. In generale la perdita di energia non dovrebbe mai essere superiore al 10%.

When a lead goes beyond the mere linking up of two machines: when it is unrolled and rolled up again with speed and efficiency, when it can be put away and found again easily, when it is used at the same time as lots of other identical but quite different leads but doesn't lead to confusion:

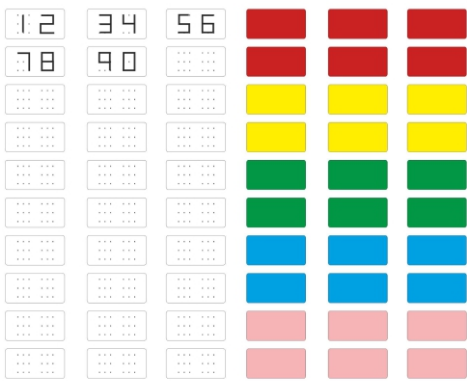

X-LEAD boasts new packaging, to the last detail with connectors redesigned in such a way as to make them recognizable immediately as well as other useful details.

X-LEAD is a complete range of products that's covers different needs and types of use.
